Ruling on Wagner Act to Help Heal Bitter Split in Labor; Battle for Control Goes on

Period of Strife Is Likely Before Unions Drop Feud

Machinery of Wagner Law Will Determine Worker's Majority

PEACE IS ENFORCED

Rival Unions Must Show Which Has Actual Control of Employees

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND.—Validation of the Wagner Labor Relations Act by the U. S. Supreme Court opens the way to peaceful adjustment of bitter disputes, growing more frequent, between John Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization and William Green's American Federation of Labor.

The Wagner machinery provides peaceful elections to decide which organization has a majority of employees in a unit, and gives exclusive collective bargaining powers to that majority.

The rush to sign up a majority may tend for a time even to heighten this rivalry between the two unions. Now the majority is even more vital than before, for a minority no matter how large, has no bargaining right whatever. It means death to the union coming out at the short end of the vote.

Cleveland recently saw a pitched street battle between these rivals. The Electric Vacuum Cleaner Co. signed a contract with the A. F. of L. unions. C. I. O. union members claimed they really had the majority in the plant. When A. F. of L. members tried to go to work to fulfill their contract, C. I. O. pickets tried to prevent them.

Pickets from other A. F. of L. unions rallied to protect their allies' entrance to the plant. Pickets from other C. I. O. unions rallied to help their allies' to prevent it. A thousand men scrambled and fought before the plant gates. Mounted police had to ride in and stop the fight.

Widespread Feud
Elections under the newly upheld Wagner Act are aimed at peaceful settlement of conflicts like this. And the prospect of such friction mounts daily as the C. I. O. organization drive spreads into new fields. Increasing conflicts are inevitable with A. F. of L. unions which have either memberships, contracts, or a claim to jurisdiction in the industries and plants involved.

Every such battle increases the bitterness between the two labor organizations, and unless more definite lines are drawn to mark out the field of each inter-union fight may become common than employer-employee disputes in the months to come.

The controversy extends down from William Green, A. F. of L. leader, and John Lewis, C. I. O. leader, through central labor bodies, C. I. O., leaving only scattered A. F. of L. members in the field. In autos and rubber the same thing happened. But as Lewis began to go beyond those industries, the conflict became more definitely marked.

As Lewis goes out to organize 1,000,000 oil industry workers, for instance, the A. F. of L. has announced definitely that it will fight back, and match Lewis dollar for dollar and epithet for epithet.

Lewis' Textile Workers' Organizing Committee, inheriting the former A. F. of L. United Textile Workers, and backed by other C. I. O. unions in allied trades, goes out for several million textile workers. But it meets increasing opposition in the South from A. F. of L. unions determined to keep a foothold in the industry despite the Senator Robert F. Wagner (Dem., N. Y.) had reason to be happy when this photo was made. The Supreme Court had just ruled, in five test cases, that the labor relations law sponsored by the senator was constitutional.

Rival labor unions turn to fists instead of facts, rough-house instead of reason. The men wearing white buttons are A. F. of L. pickets, trying to clear an entrance to Cleveland's Electric Vacuum Cleaner Co., where they held a contract. C. I. O. members, claiming they had a majority of the plant's employees, disputed the plant's opening. A thousand men scrambled and fought, and a score were injured.

British Convicts Suspected of Plot

Reported Angered by Denial of Clemency on Coronation Day

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Dissatisfied convicts at Dartmoor prison, England's bleak "granite jug," were reported Thursday to have been balking in a plot for a Coronation day mutiny. Officials, however, denied the existence of such a plot.

An unconfirmed report said the prisoners, angered because King George the 6th would not reduce sentence or grant pardons in celebration of his coronation May 12, had arranged a break during the crowning ceremonies.

Intervention by Dominion Canada Asked in Strike

Ontario's Premier Ousts 2 Cabinet Members—"Dictator" Cry

URGES U. S. STRIKE

Town Official Calls on U. S. Workers for "Sympathy Strike"

By the Associated Press
The strike of General Motors workers at Oshawa, Ontario, virtually was pushed into the background Thursday by the split created in the provincial government.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn, who forced the resignation of two cabinet members for disagreeing with him on the government's strike policy, was assailed as a dictator in a resolution adopted by United Automobile Workers union members.

The resolution urged the Dominion of Canada to intervene to settle the strike which involves 3,700 workers.

OSAWA, Ont.—(AP)—The General Motors strike here developed Wednesday night a demand for sympathy strikers in United States plants and forced the resignation of an Ontario cabinet member who defended the Oshawa union.

Labor Minister David Croll quit at the demand of Premier Mitchell Hepburn, who is opposing the John L. Lewis labor organization. Hepburn asked that Attorney General Arthur W. Robbuck also resign.

Mayor Alex Hall issued the demand that strikes be called in General Motors' United States plants to demonstrate loyalty of the labor organization to 3,700 union members on strike here. He termed his demand an ultimatum to the value of international union organization. United States workers must strike by Monday or Oshawa workers will be advised to abandon the union and return to work, Hall proclaimed.

The strike was called last Thursday by the United Automobile Workers of America, an affiliate of the C. I. O. General Motors has refused to negotiate with C. I. O. representatives.

Hepburn charged that Lewis sought to become dictator of Canadian industry and that the C. I. O. had Communist affiliations.

Croll Raps Premier
The resigning minister, Croll, assailed this contention and defended the Oshawa strikers for "acting within their rights as citizens of Canada and the empire."

His letter avowed that Premier Hepburn: "Quarrelled with the right of these workers (at Oshawa) to join the union of their choice."

"You based your attack upon a conviction that the C. I. O. should not be permitted to invade Canada when you must have known that agreements had been signed by the C. I. O. with the Coulter Manufacturing Company of Oshawa and the Goodrich Tire Company of Kitchener."

Indeed, there are today and have been for many months some 10,000 workers in the province of Ontario who are members of unions affiliated with the C. I. O. Certainly I have never heard until you made it any suggestion of alliance between the Lewis unions and the Communists."

'Long-Short Haul' Repeal Advances

House Passes Measure to Give Rails Power to Fight Water Rates

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The house passed Wednesday and sent to the senate the Potomac bill repealing the "long-and-short-haul" clause of the Interstate Commerce Act. The bill would give the railroads, ineffect, opportunity to meet freight rates of water and truck carriers on long distance, particularly transcontinental, traffic.

The clause prohibits the charging of a lower rate for a long haul than for a shorter one on the same route in the same direction.

Turned Brown By Brown Turner

LONGVIEW, Texas.—From the way the Supreme Court justices have been siding up to the New Deal here lately it begins to look like they'd rather keep on the job than be on relief. It pays to advertise.

Railroads are running so many freight train now its getting dangerous to stall automobiles on the crossings again. Almost every time you look up you see as many trains as you can trucks, and they're traveling about as fast, and a lot of hitch-hikers have changed over and become tramps again.

New Court Change Bill Is Submitted

McKarran Would Add 2 New Justices to Bench, Regardless of Age

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Senator McKarran, Nevada Democrat, introduced in the senate Thursday a substitute for the Roosevelt court bill.

It would provide for an unconditional increase of two members in the size of the supreme court.

The Nevada senator has long been regarded as one of the key members of the senate judiciary committee because he has remained noncommittal on the president's proposal to enlarge the court by six members if they now over 70.

McKarran offered his substitute in the form of an amendment to the Roosevelt bill.

Urges 30-Hour Week
WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Chairman McNary, Massachusetts Democrat, of the house labor committee, predicted flatly Thursday that congress would write new labor legislation at the present session, as a result of the supreme court's decision on the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

McNary said he still believes the best solution to the unemployment problem would be a 30-hour week for all industry.

Job Contacts Are Offered by U. S. Employment Exchange Maintained by Hope Federal District Office

An effective service for the benefit of employers needing workers and workers seeking jobs is afforded by the National Re-Employment Service, with district office in Hope.

Elsewhere in this issue of The Star appears an advertisement sponsored by J. L. Williams & Sons, lumbermen, setting forth interesting facts and figures regarding the operation of the Hope office.

The Employment Service is a division of the U. S. Department of Labor. G. T. Cross is manager of the Hope district office, which serves the southwest Arkansas territory. The service is entirely free to both employers and applicants. Mr. Cross said; and local citizens are invited to make use of the facilities offered. Skilled workers are very much in demand at the present time in various parts of the state, and the clearance arrangements through the Hope office make local skilled applicants available to good jobs in other sections, according to Mr. Cross.

PINE BLUFF, Ark.—(AP)—Chancellor Harry Woodridge dismissed Thursday a suit to forbid the State Highway Commission and the Cotton Belt railroad from barricading a grade-crossing at Rison.

Judge Woodridge said Attorney O. E. Goss, representing Rison citizens who obtained a temporary injunction in their fight against the barricades, informed him the citizens did not want to press their action.

Revised Industrial School Board to Oust Supt. Reeves

Board Members Adams and Edwards Removed by Governor Bailey

DAWSON NEW CHIEF

Conway Clergyman Expected to Be Chosen Superintendent at Once

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The revamped Arkansas Boys Industrial School board prepared at noon Thursday to leave for Pine Bluff to vote on the question of ousting Superintendent John Reeves, who has been under the fire of Governor Bailey since April 2.

Secretary Phil Back announced after conferring with the governor that plans for holding a board meeting here at 11 a. m. had been changed, and the session would convene at the industrial school at 1 p. m.

It was freely predicted the superintendent would be given to the Rev. J. C. Dawson, of Conway, the governor's choice, before nightfall.

Two Ousted From Board
George H. Adams, Pine Bluff publisher, chairman, and E. F. Edwards of Conway were removed from the Board of Managers of the Boys Industrial School at Pine Bluff by Governor Bailey late Wednesday, after Comptroller J. O. Goff had reported on parole activities at the institution since January 1, 1934.

B. W. Williams of Piggott, Clay county, and A. O. Roscher of Dermott were named to succeed them. The governor signed proclamations for removal of the two members, charging that the school had been maintained without proper regard for legislative enactments; that inmates had been furnished without authority or subjected to physical abuse.

The proclamation charged that the board had shown no disposition to adopt corrective measures.

A number of new models of Frigidaires are now on display at the Automotive Supply company.

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it intelligent salesmanship to call a customer "Honey" or "Dearie"?
2. When you are shopping with a price limit in your mind, is it wise to tell the sales person just what you can pay?
3. Does a courteous customer buy when she is doubtful about her choice, knowing that she can return the purchase the next day?
4. What should you do if you find a flaw in something you have purchased?
5. Should a customer thank a sales person who has taken pains to show him what he asked for?

What would you do if—
You return to a store to buy a dress you had tried on the day before—
(a) Buy it from anyone who asks to wait on you?
(b) If the one who waited on you is busy, buy it of another saleswoman?

Answers
1. No. Yet clerks in some of the good stores are guilty of it.
2. Yes. It saves you both time.
3. No.
4. Return it to the head of the department or to the adjustment desk if there is one.
5. Yes.
Best "What Would You Do?" solution—(a). Usually a part of a saleswoman's salary depends on sales commissions.

Pretty Canoeist to Hunt Redfern

Ruth Rowe, 23, winsome canoeist of Chicago, looked over a map of South America, above as she announced she would accompany Mrs. Paul Redfern on an expedition from New York, April 25 to search for Redfern, who vanished with his plane into the British Guiana jungles 10 years ago.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, during debate on the government's decision to withhold protection from British merchantmen entering the Spanish Basque port of Bilbao, answered opposition attacks: "I am not greatly moved by charges of cowardice and white-feather which have been made upon this government. The foreign secretary of this country is responsible not for his life but for the lives of millions of people."

"In my view, an act of cowardice would be if, in order to score some cheap success, he were to run risks of damaging peace not justified by the situation."

The censure motion, presented by Maj. Clement R. Attlee, Laborite and leader of the opposition, called upon the House to depose "the failure of his majesty's government to give protection to merchant ships on their lawful occasions." It was defeated, 345 votes to 130.

Eden contended the debate was founded upon misapprehension—that Britain could not grant belligerent rights to one side without according them to both. Early in the Spanish conflict, he said, the government side declared the insurgent-held ports in Spanish Morocco, the Balearic Islands and the Canary Islands to be a war zone—which was accepted by Britain. Eden said this was an exact parallel with the situation at Bilbao.

He produced a telegram from the shipowners' Parliamentary Committee which said it was not dissatisfied with the government's action on the Bilbao situation.

Hembree's attorney, Steve Carrigan, entered a plea of insanity for his client. Dr. A. C. Kolb, former superintendent of State Hospital for Nervous Diseases, and Drs. R. E. Roland, A. C. Davis and S. J. Clark of the hospital staff, all testified that the slayer was insane.

Attorney John P. Voss, assisted Prosecuting Attorney Ned Stewart who contended Hembree was a cold blooded murderer, and killed Derryberry because of an argument over a small debt.

Following the trial Wednesday, which was attended by a large crowd of spectators, Judge Dexter Bush recessed court until Tuesday of next week, April 20.

Municipal court at Hope will be called in session Monday of next week to hear a two-weeks docket.

McDonald Calls for Speedy Trial

Has No Intention of Asking for Continuance, Says His Attorney

LITTLE ROCK.—Sam Robinson, lawyer for Ed F. McDonald, former secretary of state, said Wednesday night he "had no intention whatever of asking a continuance of Mr. McDonald's trial," in answer to a request of Prosecuting Attorney Fred A. Doutham that any motions for continuance be filed before Monday.

"As the matter now stands, with indictments against Mr. McDonald pending, Mr. McDonald is more or less under a cloud," Mr. Robinson said. "We feel that the cloud will be removed as soon as the matter is presented to a jury. Therefore, we shall not ask any continuance."

Mr. Doutham said he planned to submit evidence before Monday.

MADRID, Spain.—(AP)—The heavy artillery fire on the University City front in Madrid abruptly subsided Thursday after insurgent troops failed to break through the steadily-encircling government lines.

Heavy storms were said to have halted the fighting in the Basque country in northern Spain, where the insurgents are trying to capture the port city of Bilbao.

England Sustains Policy
LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—The House of Commons Wednesday night rejected a censure motion on the Spanish policy of the cabinet, which was condemned in a seven-hour debate for "running up the white flag."

Dictators Get Results But—What Results?

A DICTATORSHIP, so they say, is a place where they get things done. A democracy is an unwieldy, talk-cursed agglomeration of politicians in which prompt and efficient action is impossible. Hence the dictatorship must inevitably supplant the democracy in this complex, fast-moving modern world.

That, at any rate, is the argument. It has been worked overtime in the last few years. Prophets of the right and prophets of the left have announced confidently that nations like England, France, and America could not hope to go on as they were; their only choice must be between Fascism and Communism, since democracy was doomed in any case.

As long as this remained in the realm of pure theory, it was a bit hard to answer. No American could deny that a democracy could be exceedingly inefficient, on occasion. A glance at the nearest state legislature was almost enough to make one swallow the democracy-is-done-for-argument, hook, line, and sinker.

But the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and it begins to look as if a significant helping is being eaten in Spain.

There it is becoming apparent that although dictators may get things done, the things they get done are very often calamitously wrong, not to say stupid.

MUSSOLINI and Hitler declared themselves in on the Spanish war, and bound up their prestige with the triumph of the rebels. Italians and Germans went to Spain to instruct, advise, and fight; Italian and German war material was sent there for the rebels to use.

And after long months of all this, the rebel cause is in a remarkably bad way. The "invincible legions" of the dictators turn out to be somewhat below the grade of shock troops. German planes prove less airworthy than the planes flown by the Spanish loyalists. German and Italian tanks are out-clasped by government tanks.

Because of all this, the dictators are far worse off than they were a year ago. They have been getting by, in a Europe that is afraid of war, on their reputations as lords of unbeatable fighting machines. They have called on their countrymen to accept a lower standard of living so that these fighting machines could be built. They have muscled their way through international politics by threatening to put the boots to anyone who got in their path.

American Menus!

ANY American who has ever sat in a restaurant and looked helplessly at the menu with its long list of French phrases must applaud Congressman Maury Maverick's new campaign. Mr. Maverick wants French names driven off American menus, and he would start by calling hors d'oeuvres "dingle doos."

"Dingle doos" is a word of his own invention. Its great advantage, he says, is that anybody can pronounce it—which is far from true of "hors d'oeuvres." And the congressman's campaign might well be carried right on down the menu.

For the hungry American in a restaurant not only has to understand what these French names mean; he has to be able to pronounce them when the waiter bends over to take his order, and that is something of a job. Brave men stammer and stumble and blush pitifully; cowards give up and ask for something simple such as ham and eggs; both groups are entitled to relief. With "dingle doos" as a starter, can't we go ahead and get Americanized menus?

Use of Oxygen Now Is Important Factor in Treatment of Pneumonia

(No. 188)
The use of oxygen in the treatment of pneumonia began about 1917, has been greatly elaborated, and is considered today one of the important measures in the treatment. It is given whenever there is an indication that the patient is getting insufficient oxygen in his blood, indicated if he develops a blue color and a rapid pulse. His blood, if examined then, will be shown to be low in the amount of oxygen that it contains. Delirium is another sign of lack of oxygen.

Tents have been developed which may be placed over patients' beds. In many large hospitals there are oxygen rooms into which the entire bed may be moved and in which the nurse may attend the patient.

An oxygen box has been devised which may be used in the patient's home. Where such facilities are not available, oxygen may be supplied through a nasal tube. The oxygen given a patient must be carefully regulated, and continued as long as needed.

The physician in attendance gives special attention to the heart, since it may be necessary to support this organ because of the excess strain thrown upon it. He carefully studies the action of the heart and, when they are needed, uses drugs known to have specific effect on the heart and circulation.

In pneumonia, as in many other serious infections, the diet is chiefly liquids, such as soups, gruels, milk, and soft-boiled eggs. Occasionally extra sugar is given either by mouth or by injection of dextrose in order to supply the necessary material for energy.

Rest and quiet, however, are more important than nourishment in the serious stages of this disease. When recovery has begun, the diet is expounded so as to improve the blood and to help build broken-down tissue.

Patients with pneumonia must have plenty of water—not much more, however, than two to three quarts a day. A patient ordinarily will not drink water when he is quite sick, unless it is given to him. Under such circumstances, the doctor may advise giving water with a teaspoon in small amounts, frequently. Sometimes additional water may be given in the form of ice water the sick person can hold in his mouth, thus supplying fluid and, at the same time, adding to the patient's comfort.

TRAILER ADVENTURE

By Nard Jones © 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Falling with the help of GERRY NEAL, to locate her companion, BETTY HAYNES, abducted by JACK SPEDDON, MARTHA BRITAIN starts north from San Francisco up the west coast. She faces a critical problem since she is torn between love of Neal and her better judgment.

Suddenly at a small California town she cuts love aside and but Neal arrested, charged with complicity in Betty's disappearance. Then Martha starts on to Portland where she learns a JOHNNY CIZNIK, underworld character of Seattle, seems to be involved in Betty's case. Police hint that Betty may have been murdered.

Arriving in Seattle, still searching for Betty, Martha gets a letter at the Sukan parking block from ALBERT STONE, head of the Altruist Trailer Company, ordering her to turn over her equipment to a designated agent who would meet her there. The agent is Speddon and he slugs Martha, binds her and leaves her in an abandoned dock warehouse to recover.

Later Speddon arrives, tells Martha that she is to see Betty. Then she is loaded into a new boat and chloroformed. Her last thought as she lapses into unconsciousness is that she has become involved in some gigantic crime ring.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XX
HER head splitting with pain that came in fierce rhythmic strokes, like the force of a metal piston, Martha opened her eyes. She lay on a blanketed berth, and at first she believed that she was regaining consciousness in a hotel room. The slight rolling of the berth she attributed to her nauseating illness—and then, gradually, she realized that she was aboard a ship.

She remembered, now, the speedboat bouncing over the moonlit waters of the Sound, remembered the lights of Seattle crowning its seven hills. She remembered, too, that huge bulk coming toward her with the white cloth in his hand. Speddon had remonstrated. What was it he had said? "There's no need for that."

—she's not going to jump overboard." Nevertheless the damp rag of chloroform had been clamped over her mouth and nose. Her assailant had said, "I'm working for Johnny Ciznik."

Painfully she rolled her eyes to take in the stateroom. The walls were white steel, painted over many times, yet the rivets stood out plainly. She saw no port-holes anywhere, and guessed that the ship must be of good size, that probably her stateroom was below the waterline. The single door was of steel, and the lock looked heavy. She knew instinctively that it was bolted, that there was no need of her getting up to try it.

From somewhere beyond the wall came the sound of throbbing engines. They were under way!

But where to, Martha wondered—and was Betty really aboard? Had she been chloroformed only so that she would not recognize the vessel, or simply to make it easier for them to get her aboard and below without her asking to see Betty Haynes, as Speddon had promised her?

These and a hundred other questions flooded Martha's splitting head. So great was the pain that she tried not to think, tried to relax enough to sleep. Her throat was raw from the anaesthetic and her eyes burned frightfully. With a hopeless groan, she turned on her side, buried her face in the berth's blanket, and tried to lose consciousness again.

SUDDENLY she heard the sound of the heavy knob on the steel door. Breathless, she sat up on the berth, watched the door open slowly. To her amazement, her visitor was Chinese—yellow and wrinkled with age, dressed in a long black coat and trousers. In his parchment-like hand he held a cup from which steam rose in slow spirals.

"You drink," the Oriental said, coming toward the berth and holding out the cup. "This make you feel better. Make head wise."

Afraid to refuse, Martha took the cup from his hands. He nodded encouragingly as she raised the cup to her lips. Then as she drank slowly he backed toward a corner of the stateroom, sat there on a stool, still watching her with a smile.

"You—you don't need to stay," Martha said.

The Chinaman nodded. "I stay. You drink. Make head wise."

She did feel better for having accepted the cup of hot liquid. Finishing it, she put it down on the battered table beside the berth. "Is Miss Haynes aboard this boat?"

"Miss Haynes?" The Chinaman's eyes widened. "Lady with corn-colored hair your friend?"

"Yes, yes, she is. Is she really here?"

The Chinaman nodded. "Yes. She all right. You sleep now." "I don't want to sleep. I want to see that girl. Take me to her now."

The man's face slipped once more into impassivity. "You sleep. Girl all right. You see her when time comes."

"What—what is this ship?" He grinned. "Mista Ciznik, he own this ship."

"Do you—do you know Gerry Neal?"

"Mista Neal? Yes... I know. Good friend."

Dismally Martha sank back on the pillow, stared at the painted steel above her. "When will I get out of here?" she asked listlessly.

"When Mista Ciznik say... Unless revenue boats come."

"What do you mean?" Martha sat upright again. "What do you mean, unless revenue boats come?"

He smiled again. "If revenue boats catch up, then you must die." He pointed to a roll of heavy chain in the corner of the room. "That keep you down at bottom of water. So you not talk when revenue men come aboard ship."

Martha paled. "Has—has that happened... before?"

"Yes... The Oriental nodded. "Yes. Let us hope it will not happen this time."

"Why won't you take me to see Betty Haynes? Why can't you bring her here?"

"Because Mista Ciznik say not to." He looked at her oddly. "You ask many questions. That is bad. You will know what you need to know, when the time comes."

Sensible Is the Word For Gloria—Leap to Top Role Fails to Turn Blond Head of New Discovery

HOLLYWOOD—Gloria Dickson is an actress locally famed as "that poor but oh-so-glamorous little girl who was on relief until she was discovered and popped right into the stop spot of the new Mervyn LeRoy picture."

But Miss Dickson is badly miscast as a celluloid Cinderella. She is neither poor, little, nor inexperienced, and she worked in a Federal Theater Project troupe for the fun and not the wage.

She is not even particularly glamorous in the way of exoticism or sensuous appeal. And she probably is the least excited of anybody at her studio about her assignment to the feminine lead in her first picture.

Not smug about it; just composed. Before she was chosen for "The Deep South," executives were astonished by the utterly natural manner in which she underwent two screen tests—smooth, and not a trace of overacting. She said about that: "Well, I figured I had something to offer. Of course I knew they might not like it, but the only thing to do was step up there and show them what I had to sell. There wouldn't have been any sense in being unsure of myself."

Not Affected
Level-headed, you see. Indeed, she's too level-headed for her own good—in Hollywood. No affectations, eccentricities, or mysteries. If there is any self-consciousness about Gloria Dickson, it shows in her reception of the correspondents, who are wont to flock around any new personality with their self-gushing fountain pens poised for morsels of twaddle. The actress senses she could oblige them.

I tried to ask about affection and temperament. She said: "Why, it seems to me that I ought to be the last person on earth to be affected. An actor's job is to reflect life. To reflect life accurately, an actor would have to be natural, wouldn't he?"

"I've always been taught that the theater is not a sham; that if it is good theater it must seem real. You see what I mean?"

Personally Plus
Only by reading my notes can I recall that Miss Dickson has blond hair, blue-gray eyes, and nice architecture, and that she stands about 5 feet, 5 inches. Mostly I remember her engaging grin and her low, arresting voice.

What I am trying to say is that her personality so far overshadows her visible charms that you don't think about whether she could qualify as a Hollywood cutie. She could, though.

She is reticulate and generally serious, but twice she got to laughing so hard that she cried and ruined her make-up. Judging by her maturity and poise, you'd overestimate her age. She will be 26 on August 13.

Apparently Miss Dickson always has been a little old for her years. Never yet has been an ingenue, and has done only leading-woman roles since she joined a little-theater group in Long Beach at 16.

This is the main reason why, up to the time of her Warner contract, she hadn't attempted a conquest of Broadway. New York producers wouldn't be likely to hire a girl of 18 or 19 for a leading woman. Besides, Miss Dickson disclaims being a polished actress, although I can name several local authorities who'd disagree with her on that.

Banisher's Daughter
Her real name is Thais Dickerson, which she still likes better than her screen name, and she was the daughter of a baker in Pocatello, Idaho. He died in 1929 but the family were well provided for and moved to California.

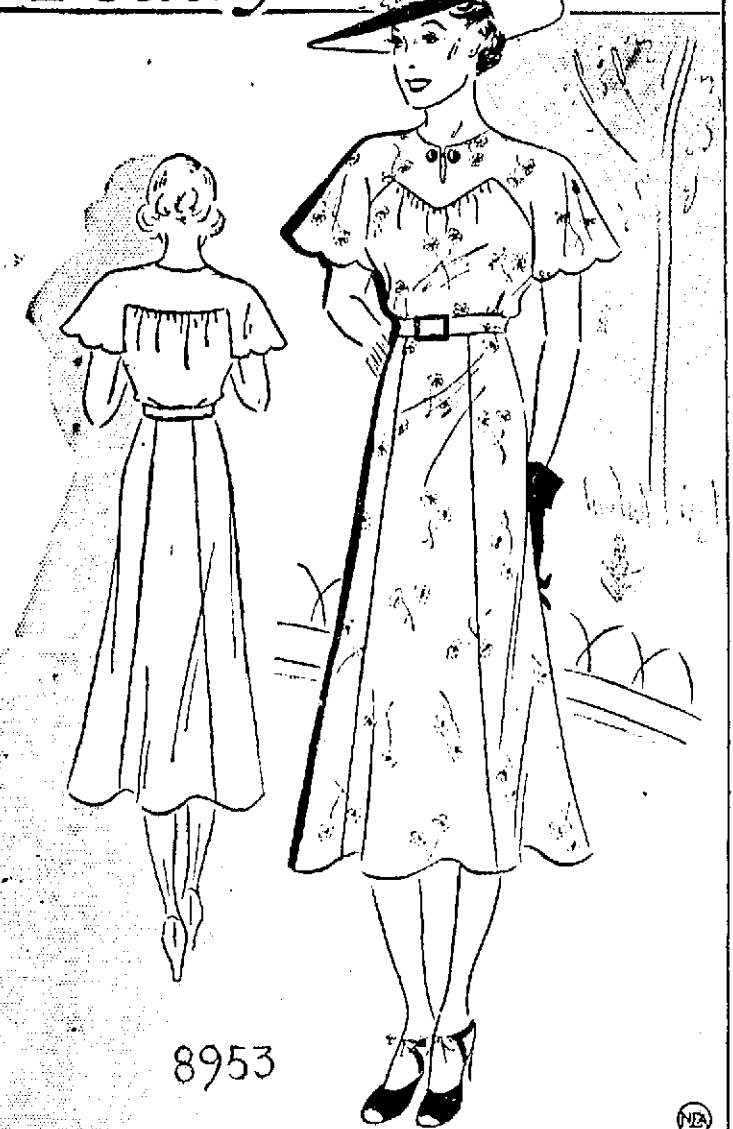

The daughter always wanted to act, and received encouragement and training from the time she entered junior high school. By 1934 she was busy in local theater groups and playing everything from Shakespeare to Shaw.

In 1935 she joined a Long Beach theater show, a repertory company. That was her first professional engagement and all those around us. Try it. Give it a day, a week, a month, and then send the ghost about his business.

A year ago, merely as an interested visitor, she dropped in on an afternoon of auditions for a Federal Theater that reacts pleasantly.

A Book a Day

Here's Evidence It's a Stupid World

An escapologist, says English novelist Cedric Belfrage, is a man who persists in looking for the fun of life on the back of the neck instead of in the face. Most Americans and Englishmen, he adds, are escapologists. In fact they steadfastly refuse to recognize the modern world for the completely modern house it is; he himself has been there and the traveled all around the world recently in a futile attempt to get away from it all.

He describes that tour in "From It All" (Simon and Schuster, $2), a peppy book which is both a travelogue and a review of the world's more obvious imbecilities.

The world, as Mr. Belfrage sees it, is in a terrifically bad way and due to get worse. In London he saw the sands of slum children who were rickety from lack of proper vitamins in their food; in Spain he saw tons of oranges rotting on the ground because it did not pay to export them; the contrast seemed to him typical of the fix of a world which has stumbled into an age of plenty and refuses to take advantage of it.

He observed such contrasts where he went, and he is constantly speaking his mind about them. The result is a book which occasionally is rather monotonously ill-tempered, but which, for all that, is the sort of thing that sets you thinking—which is all to the good.

One episode is different. He went part way across the Pacific by helicopter with an old lady, a profane seaman, and a gibed young colonial for shipments, and his story of this fantastic voyage is pure adventure.

For the rest, his book is acid, provocative—and well worth reading.

There are 20 Hawaiian Islands. Nine are inhabited.

Project. They were looking for some one to play Diane, the lead in "Seventh Heaven."

Miss Dickson found herself filling out an application and reading some lines. She got the part. A player doesn't have to be on the relief rolls to be eligible for a place in one of those companies.

It was some months and several leading roles later that a Warner talent scout coaxed her in front of a camera.

Contrasting engravations of white organdie on the bodice and the novel petal sleeves are Lanvin's dramatic contribution to the Paris evening scene. The gown is fashioned of navy organdie and has a voluminous floor length skirt. A wide wreath of multicolor flowers embellishes the simple coiffure.

A flowing cape of black chantilly lace is worn over the Jean Patou gown of white satin and novel design. A killed panel encrusted at the back of the skirt is cut away in a rounded effect in front. The slash thus created is partly veiled by a pleated panel that depends from a frill of black lace at the waistline. Note the unique décolleté.

Youngest Movie Stars Eat "Oats"

Quater-Million Paid Down on New Three-Year Film Contract

Hollywood's highly paid and youngest movie stars are none other than the famous Dionne Quins.

A three-year contract with Twentieth Century-Fox studios signed on the Quins' second birthday assures them of financial independence for life. The down payment of $250,000 was made in cash and was placed, it is said, in 5 per cent government bonds. A remaining $50,000 and 10 per cent of the receipts for each picture filmed were to be paid at later dates.

These budding cinema stars are very temperamental and insist upon writing their own parts. It is often necessary to change the script many times to fit the quins-temperament. Sometimes they "go on strike" and run to their own nurses instead of their Hollywood fellow-actors. Then again they will refuse to remove their "acting clothes" and insist on wearing them after the filming is concluded. Prints of all Dionne pictures are being stored in the Hollywood studio vault and will be presented to the young ladies on their eighteenth birthday.

It is safe to say that the Misses Dionne will be proud when they see themselves in pictures. For they are today as hale and hearty and attractive as any child could hope to be. And much of their good health is due to the scientific diet chosen by their medical staff. As the babies were very much underweight at birth it was necessary to choose their food as they grew older with exceptional care.

Oatmeal, rich in Vitamin B, was the cereal selected for the Quins. Leading medical authorities and food editors agree that Vitamin B is essential for childhood's protection against nervousness, constipation and poor appetite due to lack of that vitamin.

EAT THE OATS AT THE THEATERS

Charles Boyer and Jean Arthur, the screen's newest team of film romancers, will show Thursday and Friday at the Saenger in "History is Made at Night."

This smart, fast-paced romance casts Boyer in a totally new type of role as Paul Dumond, dashing man-about-town and the most popular head waiter on the Continent, while Jean Arthur is seen as a lovely New York mannequin. They meet in Paris under thrilling circumstances. The pair become involved in a gay, ultra-modern romance that carries them from France to America against a series of stunning, ultra-modern settings, including a crack luxury liner and the smartest restaurants of New York and Paris.

Leo Carrillo and Colin Clive are featured in the supporting cast. At the Rialto Thursday and Friday is Warner Baxter, long a Hope favorite, in "White Hunter."

And, too, oatmeal with milk is rich in body-building minerals, muscle-building protein, and energy-making carbohydrates.

So every day the Quins have a big bowlful of Quaker Oats. And it takes but one glance at their pictures to prove that they are five of the world's most healthy children.

"Gone With the Wind" Is Problem

Casting Is Undecided—But Miriam Hopkins May Get Scarlett Role

By ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD.—Games may come and games may go in Hollywood, but the industry sport that has lasted nearly a year is film-casting for "Gone With the Wind."

Joining in, we'll string along with Miriam Hopkins for that vivid Scarlett O'Hara role. Of all the reigning film actresses suggested for the part, Miriam hits me as the girl most suited in every respect.

I seem to have a lot of company in that choice, for the fans—who have taken a hand in casting on this film more than on any other in years—have shown a decided preference for an O'Hara-Hopkins merger.

Looking back over the Hopkins screen accomplishments to date, you can see why the fans see her as Scarlett. Perhaps the principal reason for a Hopkins prejudice is what Miriam did with "Becky Sharp." More than one critic has suggested that Scarlett has in her something of the famous Becky, while Melaine, gentle soul, at times fairly cries her kinship to Amelia Sedley of the Thackeray novel.

Convincing Actress I thought Miss Hopkins' Becky most creditable, and she has given, in that and other films, abundant proof of her claims as an actress.

In "Becky Sharp" our Scarlett nominee ran the well-known gamut. As flirt, coy vixen, dominant female, dejected victim of misfortune, she was equally convincing. I thought, Miss Hopkins can be hard and ruthless (as in "Becky Sharp") and "Barbary Coast" and she can be utterly feminine and soft (as in "All of Me," portions of "Barbary Coast," and those sections of "The Smiling Lieutenant" in which she was not engrossed in comedy). Scarlett must be all of these and more—and I think Miriam can give the more.

Fans Want Gable Another Hopkins vote-getter not to be discounted is her Georgia origin, which means not only that she knows first hand what "Gone With the Wind" is about, but that she won't have to strive too hard to recapture her southern accent. (After hearing what Bette Davis did in the Cockney accent line, I'm not sure she couldn't do as well by a little talk too, but that would have to be demonstrated. And Bette probably couldn't be borrowed from Warner's anyway.)

As for Rhet Butler, it looks like Clark Gable no matter what anyone can say or do about it. That is a sort of "by popular demand" vote. And Melaine—there's nobody who could play Melaine like Helen Hayes, unless Selznick turns up a surprise stunt like casting his scarcely tried discovery, little Margaret Tallichet. I think Margaret, who a short time ago was tapping typewriter keys in a studio office, looks the part. But whether she can act—we'd have to see.

mon about 30 witnesses, 10 or 12 of them from considerable distances.

The prosecutor said that he would try Mr. McDonald on one of four indictments charging him jointly with I. L. Ziebart, chemical company salesman, with false pretense, Mr. Donham said that Ziebart would not be placed on trial with Mr. McDonald.

McDonald faces 10 indictments. Besides the four in which he is charged with Ziebart, he is charged in four indictments with accepting bribes. In two others he is charged jointly with A. R. Bernstein of Memphis on false pretense counts.

Each of the four indictments against Mr. McDonald and Mr. Ziebart charges them with defrauding the state of $180 in connection with the alleged purchase and delivery of soap to the capital. Mr. McDonald has been at liberty on $2,500 bond since the indictments were returned in January. Ziebart has been in jail since his arrest in Dallas last December.

A WILD NIGHT

One gallon of gasoline... and the Hospital 21 miles away

The TRUE Story of the Midnight Ride of Mrs. Cyril Frederick Hopper, of Rochester, New York

WE WERE IN THE WILDS OF MAINE THAT SUMMER AND IT WAS A WILD NIGHT WHEN MY NEIGHBORS CALLED I STARTED TO DRIVE HER TO THE HOSPITAL 21 MILES AWAY BUT FOUND THE GASOLINE TANK WAS EMPTY! THEN I REMEMBERED A GALLON OF ESSOLENE WE KEPT IN THE CELLAR...

AFTER 15 MILES OVER ROUGH DIRT ROADS I LISTENED TENSELY FOR THAT LAST MOTOR GASPI BUT I RECKONED ON ORDINARY GASOLINE... NOT ESSOLENE

ESSOLENE is so different it's actually been granted a U. S. Patent. This regular-priced gasoline gives more miles per gallon than even most premium priced fuels and no gasoline at any price gives more.

In proof of Essolene's extra mileage thousands of motorists have written their enthusiastic testimony. Prove it for yourself. Try one tankful of Essolene and see why Happy Motoring Starts at the Esso Sign.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klem

THE FLOATING SAFE.

DUTCH ships plying between the Netherlands and its East Indian colonies, in 1921, carried huge oval-shaped safes of steel, which were designed to float in case of a wreck. Registered mail and other valuables were carried in these safes, and special stamps were issued for use on such mail. The safes, painted a glistening white, rested on cradles of iron and wire netting, in full view of the bridge. If the ship should founder, the safe would be released automatically, to float about in the water until picked up. Flares would light it at night, and its white surface would make it visible by day.

While on shipboard, the safe was connected electrically with the ship's dynamo, so that any person unacquainted with the wiring would get a severe shock if he touched it.

These safes never were tested fully, for no ship carrying one of them foundered, and the experiment was abandoned. One of the safe stamps issued at the time, for the Netherlands and the Dutch East Indies, is shown here.

Tommy Henrich Is Ruled Free Agent

Eligible to Sign With Any Club Desiring His Service

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, Thursday ruled Tommy Henrich, 22-year-old outfielder, now with the Milwaukee club of the American Association, as a free agent, thus depriving the Cleveland Indians of a claim to him. Henrich, rated as a potential $15,000 ball player, is eligible to sign with any major league club which may desire his services. The bidding promises to be brisk.

Henrich, a hard hitting left-hander who batted .346 with New Orleans last year, had appealed to Commissioner Landis to investigate his status, charging that the Indians had shunted him from farm to farm, preventing his advancement to the major leagues. Landis' investigation disclosed that the Cleveland club was guilty of covering Henrich up and that his transfer from New Orleans to Milwaukee was made at the direction of Cleveland officials. Henrich had played with Zanesville, Ohio, and New Orleans, both Cleveland farms, and was then sent to Milwaukee, joining the Brewers this spring after his purchase last fall with Pitcher Ralph Winegarner, for $7,500. Henrich never played with Milwaukee except in spring exhibition games in which he batted and fielded sensationally.

Chicks Drop Three Players From Squad

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Manager Billy Southworth removed three players from the Chicks' roster to reduce the team to 19 for the season opening Friday. Jimmy Powell, regular catcher last season, was optioned to Hazelton, Pa., of the New York-Penn League, while First Baseman Kirby Farrell and Shortstop Jack Pearson were dropped but not immediately placed.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Picks Cubs to Win National Pennant

Five-Club Race Is Seen, With Reds as Dark Horses

By HARRY GRAYSON Sports Editor, NEA Service

Now is the time for all good experts to climb out on that limb and tell the constituents just how the baseball clubs will finish.

Respecting the seniority rights of the National League, we'll deal with it first.

It strikes me that schooled observers are overlooking the Chicago Cubs in what scarcely can miss being another typical National League race, with five clubs in the thick of a scramble as wide open as this spring's Kentucky Derby.

Because the Bruin are the best balanced outfit in the elder circuit and haven't a great deal to beat, because the Giants are without William Harold Terry's services as an active combatant and are older, and for numerous other reasons, it is my offside prediction that the final 1937 standings of the National League will look something like what is printed below. How they wound up in 1936 is shown on the right.

Chicago has enjoyed exceptionally fine pitching for more than a decade. Last season the Cubs failed to repeat their pennant-winning performance of 1935 due to their inability to score runs. They have been reinforced in this important department by Jimmy Collins, an accomplished first baseman who in addition to rounding out the slickest defensive infield in the majors, is a run-batter-inner from way back. In 77 games with the Cardinals over a six-year stretch, Ripper Collins swatted in 516 runs and hit 106 home runs.

To get Collins, the Cubs sacrificed the renowned right-hand pitcher, Lon Warneke, but his loss should be at least partially offset by Leroy Parmelee, who came with Collins and who has as much or more than any slinger in the business. Who knows? This may be Parmelee's big year. He has been threatening to enjoy one since 1933.

Job in Jeopardy, Grimm Becomes a Driver

Chicago has superlative catchers in Gabby Hartnett and Ken O'Dea, the best second basing combination in the business, and Phil Cavarretta stepped out to win the center fielding job when it was revealed that the $50,000 Joe Marty flinched at curve balls.

The Cubs are aroused. With his position in jeopardy, Charley Grimm finally has become a driver, and this spring had his athletes scrapping for exhibition games for the first time since he succeeded Rogers Hornsby.

Grimm has ordered his scouts to acquire two more pitchers from the minors before the opening game is fired on April 20. He expresses dissatisfaction with his foragers, and threatens to engage new ones.

Philip K. Wrigley has plenty of money and wants pennants and not clubs that tie for second place. The Cubs are likely to be bolstered at the first sign of weakness.

The Giants will be difficult to head off as long as Carl Hubbell can propel a baseball with his amazing left arm, but Johnny McCarthy is no Terry at first base, and while Lou Chiozza will hit more than Stoney Jackson, the latter's steadiness may be missed at third base.

Terry Gave Up on Giants Last Summer

Last July 27, when the club was in third place, only two games ahead of the fifth-place Reds, young Horace Stoneham and Terry were convinced that the Giants had to be rebuilt. Then they won 26 of 28 games in 33 calendar days. Meanwhile, neither the Cubs nor Cardinals could play better than 500 ball. The Giants don't figure to get such a break two years hand running, particularly with Terry's big stick out of the batting order.

Lefty Brandt has joined a veteran staff of Pittsburgh pitchers which has a habit of collapsing in a body in mid-summer. There isn't too much power in the tail-end of the Pittsburgh batting order, but the Pirates have it in them to finish in front of the Reds and Cardinals provided Cy Blanton returns to his 1935 form and Catcher Al Tobbs escapes injury.

The Reds are dark horses. Charley Dresen took an eighth-place aggregation to sixth in 1935, brought it up another notch last season, and intends to crash the first division this trip. Cincinnati has a brilliant right-hander in Paul Derringer, two or three other pitchers about ready to scale the heights, and as many more exceptionally fine hurling prospects. Experienced catching will help.

The Reds hustle, but there are too many established Double A players on the roster.

Prothro Reduces Traveler Squad

Kerkiseck Sent to Canton Club—Season Opens Friday

LITTLE ROCK.—With the farming out of Pitcher Wayman Kerkiseck, Manager Doc Prothro has reduced his Little Rock Traveler roster to 19, the Southern Association limit for the first 30 days of the season. Only 17 players can be carried after the first month.

Kerkiseck, former mound star of Monticello A. & M., was sent on option to the Canton (O.) club in the Middle Atlantic League. The Middle Atlantic, regarded as the fastest Class C league in the country, is managed by Pat Patterson, who helped train the Boston Red Sox rookies here this spring.

This season marks Kerkiseck's third as Little Rock baseball property. Wayman was farmed out to Helena in the Cotton States League the past two years. Illness prevented Kerkiseck from seeing much action last season. He still is regarded as a prospect.

Wayman has turned in some creditable performances, both in the Southern and Cotton States.

Travelers who entrain at the Missouri Pacific station at 2:55 Thursday afternoon for New Orleans where they open the Southern Association season Friday are:

Pitchers—Kola Sharpe, Jennings, Foutley, Byron Humphreys, Dick Midkiff, Emerson Dickman, Owen

ed to minor league veterans in reconstructing. Barleigh Grimes announces that he will hustle the Dodgers into many victories. That is about the only way the Brooklyn club will get them. Philadelphia is hopeless, with or without Dolph Camilli.

Tinsley Named Football Coach

Former L. S. U. Start to Coach at Louisiana College

ALEXANDRIA, La.—(AP)—Caynell Tinsley, twice all-America football end at Louisiana State University, who has just been named head football coach at Louisiana College, will come here later this month to conduct two week's spring practice.

He succeeds Maj. Henry E. Walden, coach for 16 years, who will continue as director of athletics and teacher of journalism and publicity. Tinsley's assistant will be named later. Scott Weathersby will remain as freshman coach.

Condition of Tris Speaker Improved

Former Cleveland Baseball Star Gets Much Fan Mail

CLEVELAND.—(AP)—Kids who never saw Tris Speaker in a baseball suit, players who were in the minors when he sparkled in center field and even umpires acquainted with his sharp tongue cheered him as he lay in Lakeside hospital, his fractured skull packed in ice.

Baseball's "immortal Spoke" couldn't move his head to read the messages and see the flowers which came to the hospital. He couldn't talk much either but his wife read some of the letters and told him about the flowers.

Speaker, 49, fell 10 feet Sunday while putting up a flower box at his home. He was improved Wednesday. X-rays showed he had a fractured skull, a broken left arm and a broken bone in his right hand in addition to a bad cut on his face.

Naturalube Is New Lion Oil Product

El Dorado Refining Company Opens Its Largest Advertising Campaign

The Lion Oil Refining company, with general offices and refining plant at El Dorado, Ark., announced Thursday the opening of the largest advertising campaign in the history of that organization. The campaign starts this day, April 15, when Lion Naturalube Motor Oil, Lion's newest product, will be placed on the market at retail through service stations and dealers in Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee.

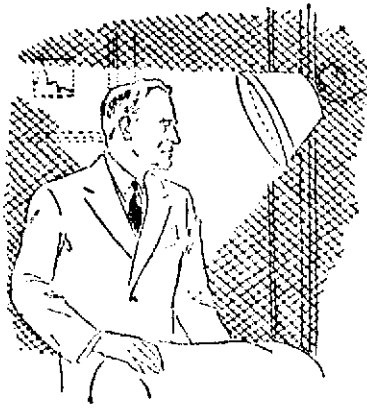

"The advertising campaign will be supported by numerous sales promotional efforts which will include actual demonstrations of the amazing properties of this new oil in every town where Lion has outlets by a specially trained crew of lubrication experts," said C. R. Olson, sales promotion manager for Lion Oil. "These men will also assist Lion's field representatives in special sales promotion work throughout the territory. Plans for distributing the new oil have been completed and most of the Lion dealers in the trade territory have received their initial stocks."

Distinctive Features
A. F. Reed, vice president and general sales manager of Lion Oil Refining company, in discussing the new product said, "Lion's research and manufacturing departments have been experimenting for the past seven years with a particular crude oil that is produced only in one small area near El Dorado from Lion's own wells. As a result of these experiments, Lion has developed a new and exclusive refining process through which this particular crude is run. There are certain characteristics of the crude oil which, when refined by Lion's new and exclusive process, give Naturalube a protective film more than three times stronger than any other type of oil. An exclusive feature of the new oil is that it gradually removes carbon from motor parts. This feature started motor lubrication engineers throughout the country particularly when it was explained that nothing is added to the oil to give it this remarkable characteristic. Lion's new motor oil, Naturalube, more than meets the exacting demands of present day high speed, high compression motors."

Sold Nationally
"A specially designed lubricating oil plant has recently been constructed at the Lion Oil Refining company's plant at El Dorado," Mr. Reed said. "The lubricating oil unit has been in operation since January 1, 1937 and

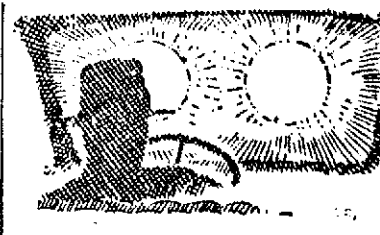

FUN with FACTS

THE FUN

1. In a room darkened so that you can barely distinguish articles, stand over or near an unlit light. Pick out some picture or object across the room. Turn on the light for 8 or 10 seconds, then turn it off. Try to distinguish the object on which your eyes were focused.

2. Place a match box or other small article on the edge of a mantelpiece or have someone hold a pencil vertically at eye level. Walk away six or eight feet. Close one eye tightly. Walk forward and try to place the tip of your finger on the object.

1. Notice that there is quite a appreciable interval before the object becomes visible again. This nearly duplicates driving conditions at night with headlights of an approaching car. During the several seconds which may elapse before maximum vision returns, your car may travel more than 100 feet. (40 M.P.H. = 60 feet per sec.)

2. Without the unobstructed vision of both eyes, it is difficult to judge distances accurately.

shipments are now being made throughout the South and Middle West. Already there is a great demand for Naturalube in the areas where tractors and diesels are in general use, because the heat resisting and carbon removal qualities of the new oil make it ideal for this type of motor as well as automobile engines."

Newspapers Used
In discussing advertising plans for Naturalube, W. R. Haun, advertising manager of Lion Oil Refining company, said, "Lion's Spring advertising campaign, which will be devoted entirely to Naturalube Motor Oil, is the largest single campaign in the history of the company. Practically every known medium of advertising will be used but we will depend in this campaign, as in the past, on the newspapers to carry the great portion of the advertising load. Lion has always been a firm believer in the power of newspaper advertising and this campaign will be carried in every daily and weekly in Lion's trade territory which covers Arkansas and Mississippi, and parts of Alabama and Tennessee. There are over 140 newspapers on the schedule to receive Naturalube advertising."

The present Texas legislature is the second in the last 14 years without a woman member.

Gold Miners Are Seized for Theft

Rumored That Rich Homestake Mine Has Lost 2 Millions in Bullion

By ROBERT GEIGER
AP Feature Service Writer

LEAD, S. D.—Gold and greed again have woven a fantastic story of "high grading" in the west. This time the nation's richest gold mine has been the scene of the alleged thefts.

Roland K. Goddard, U. S. secret service head at Denver, says underworld gossip has it that $2,000,000 worth of yellow metal has been stolen from the famed Homestake mine here and whisked to a secret cache.

Five men are under arrest and the elusive "head man" in the plot, described by Goddard as a world-traveling soldier of fortune, is sought, but only $6,500 worth of stolen metal has been traced.

Listens In On Plot
Homestake officials deny they have lost anything like $2,000,000.

But miners' homes in Lead have been searched and officers report they have discovered gold hidden in gold fish bowls, in coffee cans and other receptacles presumably secreted to be sold "when things cooled off."

This was but a trickle of gold dust compared to the fortune which men of the underworld are said to have plotted to steal from the high graders, then skip to Mexico and hide. Goddard indicates. From Mexico the metal might have been shipped back to the United States and sold as gold mined there.

Goddard planted a listening device in a rooming house and heard men plan, he says, to steal the gold from the mine. But he doubts that as much gold as they talked about could have been smuggled from the mine.

Many Ways to Sneak Out
Miners might have carried gold from the mine, however, secreting it in their clothing, their lunch pails and by other means, to carry to their homes and hide. Because of the United States gold act, prohibiting possession of gold and regulating its sale, the metal is hard to dispose of.

This caused the secret service to investigate reports that the gold was pooled in one cache for shipment to Mexico.

Five men, Goddard reveals, have admitted they plotted to steal this gold. But thus far Goddard has been unable to discover the "cache."

Just how much gold has disappeared, authorities may never know. About $14,000,000 worth passes annually through the Homestake gates.

Can't Stop Theft
The ore in the Homestake is low grade, running from $3 to $7 a ton. The best opportunity for the thefts occur when a rich vein is struck. In the history of the Homestake this had happened seldom. But occasionally a nugget is found and it is comparatively easy for a miner to hide this in his clothing.

Nearly every famed mine in the west has been the target of high graders and mining men say it is impossible to stop them.

In the old Cresson mine at Cripple Creek, Colo., where the Cresson "Vug" was struck, a bank vault door was placed at the head of the underground chamber and armed guards were posted over it.

The "vug" was an underground "pocket" of gold and the "pocket" was the size of a large room. It yielded more than $1,000,000 in gold.

Miners were tempted to hide a nugget or two in their lunch pail or in the cuff of their trousers as they went off duty. So some mines installed a "change" room, where every miner

QUAKER OATS

A humble bun sandwich and a famous 23-carat diamond ring made company in the hands of Mrs. Wolf Barnato, above, as she lunched in Hollywood with friends she knew before she married the son of the late Barnett Barnato, called the world's diamond king. As Jackie Quareley, San Francisco society girl, she was wooed and won in 1932 by a barrage of radio-grams from young Barnato, then on a world cruise.

changed clothing as he left the property each day.

Gun Battle
One of the most sensational high grading plots was uncovered at a Cripple Creek mine in the early history of that camp.

The mine manager, H. A. Shipmon, suspected the high graders were entering the mine through abandoned openings to the "Bull Pen" stope, where ore was worth about $1 a pound.

Shipmon armed himself and a number of trusted employees and waited one night in the dark recesses of the stope. They heard men entering the mine and soon saw lights.

"Hands up," Shipmon shouted. A gun battle raged for minutes and the gang was captured.

At one time high graders maintained dishonest assays in many mining camps and through them disposed of stolen gold in wholesale quantities.

The average life of a dollar bill is about nine months.
